

GRF LEGAL COMMUNITY PLEDGE PROGRESS UPDATE 2020 - 2021

WHY THE PLEDGE?

For the over 82 million people who have been forced to flee their homes and the millions more who are stateless today, even accessing the most basic of rights can be a challenge. For these people, the law is a key to unlock rights - such as education, employment, health care, and freedom of movement. The law is a key to unlock justice - when refugees and others forcibly displaced have suffered harm or violations of their rights. The law is a key to unlock solutions - through the recognition of nationality, legal identity, or protected status and the granting of legal pathways to protection for those at risk.

Yet, for many people who are forcibly displaced, breakdown in the rule of law and use of law as a tool of oppression, wielded by some States against minorities and those that contradict government policy, have meant that the law may be viewed as contributing to displacement, rather than being seen as a solution to it. Once they have fled, those displaced frequently live outside the protection of the law and lack access to legal information and assistance to claim asylum or nationality, to regularize their legal status, to navigate legal and protection frameworks and justice mechanisms or access family reunification in third countries or other safe legal pathways. Governments frequently exclude or limit access to state-funded legal aid, and legal assistance and empowerment programs for those displaced are a chronically underfunded component of the humanitarian system. This must change.

WHAT IS THE PLEDGE?

At the inaugural Global Refugee Forum in 2019, more than 80 legal and community empowerment organizations, law firms, bar associations, refugee law clinics, and corporations came together to collectively pledge to address the diverse and unmet legal needs of refugees and others forcibly displaced.

Those that joined the “Mobilizing the Global Legal Community to Protect and Find Solutions for Refugees and Others Forcibly Displaced” pledge - also known as the Global Refugee Forum Legal Community Pledge - expressly committed to support efforts to protect and find solutions for refugees, asylum-seekers, stateless persons, and other forcibly displaced persons and to increase the number of those displaced around the world who have access to justice in line with Sustainable Development Goal 16 which calls for "Equal Access to Justice for All."

Among the commitments made, the private sector signatories to the Pledge committed to provide over 127,000 pro bono hours a year to support the legal needs of those forcibly displaced and of the organizations that work with and for displaced communities. The private and public sector signatories who joined the Pledge agreed to fulfill their Pledge commitments in solidarity with each other, and other stakeholders, as part of a multi-stakeholder and partnership approach.

PROGRESS HIGHLIGHTS

Despite the challenges presented by the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic, the actors that signed the GRF Community Legal Pledge effectively mobilized themselves in an unprecedented way in 2020, including:

- A Core Group of NGOs and individuals was established to support the implementation, growth, and sustainability of the Pledge.
- The private sector signatories to the Pledge exceeded their committed pro bono hours by 30%.
- Funding was mobilized to pilot capacity development and resource mobilization activities in Asia, including a national-level collaborative pilot project.
- A Pro Bono Toolkit was developed to support NGOs and Refugee-led Organizations/Initiatives (RLO/Is) to design and implement pro bono projects.
- Over 100 RLO/Is and NGO participants attended capacity development workshops and a Pro Bono Pitching Roundtable in Asia.
- RLO/Is pitched a wide variety of pro bono projects, which were matched with law firms, unlocking millions of dollars' worth of legal services, provided for free.

Further information and highlights of the first year of implementation of the Pledge can be found in the GRF Legal Community Pledge - 2020 Progress Report.

PROGRESS HIGHLIGHTS

The Core Group expanded the range of actors involved in the Pledge and created greater opportunities for needs-identification and pro bono matching, including:

- A GRF Legal Community Pledge Matching Portal was launched by PILnet; the portal is the first-ever global refugee clearinghouse and serves to identify and match legal needs with pro bono hours pledged.
- An Urgent Consultation on the Legal Needs Arising from the Situation in Afghanistan was held in August and a joint plan of action developed.
- PILnet launched a Legal Resource Mapping Survey - Afghanistan to track resources, strengthen coordination and information consolidation, and support the development of pro bono projects.
- Four regional refugee-led networks joined the Pledge and two refugee-led organizations were matched with free legal help from private sector actors.
- Six workshops were held in Thailand to facilitate local legal and refugee actors to co-design a collaborative private-public model for legal assistance delivery.
- The Core Group started to scope regional models for implementation of the Pledge, including hosting a scoping workshop with local actors in Latin America and conducting prioritized outreach in Africa, Europe and the Middle-East.

WHAT HAVE WE LEARNED ?

Transforming a global commitment to leverage legal resources and networks into an initiative that tangibly increases access to legal assistance for refugees and other forcibly displaced people is an inherently challenging task. Legal service provision is highly localized, demanding contextualized legal programs, that respond to the specific needs of displaced communities, local legal frameworks, and legal professional requirements, while also being connected to local-level advocacy efforts. To achieve this transformation, it is vital that the Pledge is driven by the unmet legal needs of those displaced as well as the views of local legal actors, rather than the supply of pro bono hours pledged.

Where the Core Group successfully partnered with RLO/Is this greatly enhanced the mobilization of the legal community and ensured that the needs of those displaced were rightly at the centre of implementation activities. For example, in response to the crises in Afghanistan, Core Group members partnered with the Global Refugee Led-Network's Asia Pacific, Middle-East and European regional arms, to co-design and undertake joint activities to address the diverse and overwhelming legal needs experienced by those impacted by the situation in Afghanistan. There is a need to expand efforts to include more RLO/Is in Pledge implementation, as well as to ensure an equal level of focus on engaging local legal aid providers and strengthening the capacity of both actors to identify and respond to legal needs.

The impact of the Pledge has been greatest in Asia Pacific, where resources were mobilized to support both regional and national-level implementation activities. There is a need to develop and resource regional models of implementation. These could draw from the experiences, lessons learned and good practices in Asia Pacific but must be led by local actors and designed specifically for each unique regional context.

WHAT IS NEXT ?

The long-term value of the Pledge will depend on its ability to adapt to and meet the legal needs of refugees and other forcibly displaced people as they are experienced on the ground. PILnet and the Core Group will continue to mobilize, connect, and support the global legal community to make and meet Pledge commitments to increase access to legal assistance and justice for refugees at a local level. This includes:

Developing regional models for implementation of the Pledge, to enable resources available through the Pledge to be harnessed at a local level, while connecting local actors to an ever-increasing global community of lawyers committed to improving access to justice for refugees.

Ensuring greater awareness within displaced communities about the legal resources available through the Pledge, as well as supporting greater participation of refugees in decision-making around Pledge implementation, the development of pilot and other pro bono projects, and in assessing impact.

Continuing to mobilize, connect, and support the legal community to respond to the legal needs of impacted Afghans by supporting them to secure their rights, regularize their status in countries of asylum, and seek legal pathways to safety. We will support the consolidation of legal information, strengthen referral pathways and coordination and support RLO/Is and local legal aid providers to respond to legal needs.

Undertaking joint advocacy around the fundamental role of legal assistance, the rule of law, and access to justice for those displaced - in line with Sustainable Development Goal 16 ("Equal Access to Justice for All") - as well as to strengthen legal procedures and other laws, policies, and practices. We will advocate for greater funding of legal aid and empowerment programming. We will also call on States, donors, NGOs, and other actors to support existing pledges, and make new pledges at the next GRF, focused on strengthening access to legal assistance and justice for those displaced.
